

Major Indian Operator Expands Mobile Broadband Services with Bridgewater

Expanded deployment enables secure, high-speed mobile Internet services to over 125 cities in India

New Delhi, India – December 10, 2010 – Bridgewater Systems (TSX: BWC), the mobile personalization company, today announced that a major operator in India with over 80 million subscribers is expanding mobile broadband services across India using the Bridgewater® Service Controller (AAA) anchored by Bridgewater's Subscriber Data Broker™.

News

- The Indian operator is expanding its deployment of the Bridgewater Service Controller to securely authenticate and authorize subscribers and perform critical accounting functions. The operator is ramping up its mobile data services such as mobile streaming, video calls and mobile Internet services across nine telecom circles representing over 125 cities in India.
- The operator is also deploying Bridgewater's Subscriber Data Broker which provides a common subscriber data management platform that brings together rich, dynamic subscriber data with the sophisticated tools to broker that data to multiple systems and applications to personalize services.
- It allows operators to:
 - Rapidly scale mobile data services to millions of subscribers and manage billions of mobile data transactions with a Tier 1 proven, high performance solution.
 - Deliver personalized services to attract and retain subscribers. New streaming media, video calls, social networking, and location-based services can be provisioned, modified, and personalized using a unified, real-time subscriber data management solution.
 - Reduce operating costs by unifying subscriber data, and easily provisioning new subscribers and services without custom integration.
- Bridgewater's India Center of Excellence is providing mobile control plane technology development, sales, professional and support services to help operators in India and across the Asia Pacific region rapidly deliver 3G and 4G services. Based in Gurgaon, Delhi, the Center is supporting this mobile data network deployment.
